Three People Spinning Around

By Todd Myers and Josie Lynn

Maple Street's Fall Faire has kicked off at the quiet corner of downtown Lavender Town! Their annual celebration of the colorful season started last night after a beautiful concert host by Lavender Town's own local jazz band, The Jazz Bouquet. They provided some wonderful accompaniment to the merry filled night, as local citizens enjoyed the evening carnival. Some highlights from the street faire include the newest food truck in town, The Donut Touch, who provided some sweet doughnuts to the celebration. Perhaps the biggest attraction that the crowds were most excited for was the great spinning contraption, The Triple Sledgehammer! This 20ft high attraction sent three people spinning around at great heights at a time. Lines of patient patrons spanned full blocks as they waited patiently for their turn at the death defying ride. The Maple Street Fall Faire is a celebration funded by the donations of generous patrons, so if you love the annual celebration of the season, don't forget to donate what you can. Keep the family fun tradition alive with the power of your donations!

A Hug with Love

By Sarah Rose

Sometimes it's truly the simplest gifts that can make a person's day, and they can even stop fights. Conflict nearly broke out in the middle of Oro Vista Road, when agitated parties began to throw obscenities and insults at each other from across the street. The initial incident which started this feud was an automobile collision which had happened earlier in the morning. The two parties met each other at Oro Vista, when hostility began to rise between the two groups. However, just before the conflict rose to a fight, they found themselves met with a stranger who had come between them. Caught in the middle of a hostile environment, this bystander acted very strangely, and simply hugged one of the aggressing parties before they could react.

This one small act of kindness left both parties speechless as they started to talk out their aggressions in a peaceful manner on the curb. This just goes to show, there is always another way to get around your problems besides trying to fight them! Sometimes a hug can be the best answer you never expected!

A Player That Sank

By Loic Stanza

Tragedy struck the citizens of small town, Lavender Grove, when young Anthony Burroughs fell into the lake late last night. Neighbors heard commotion outside and did their best to respond as fast as they could. They arrived at the scene of the incident with three students from the local high school attempting to rescue Burroughs from a capsized motorboat. The first responders on the scene were successful in retrieving the boy from the sinking watercraft, but were unable to resuscitate him. Anthony Burroughs was an active player in the Lavender Town High School baseball team, praised for his batting average of 0.459 as a high school senior. The Burroughs family will be hosting an open wake at the Southern River Graves. If you knew the young Burroughs, feel free to visit the grieving family that morning and afternoon in order to offer your condolences. They are welcome and appreciated.

An Angry Soul's Vow

By Josie Lynn

A strange scene was discovered by a group of local teens that had wandered into the old abandoned Maple Street amphitheater. They entered the old amphitheater with permission with the local police in order to create a surreal photoshoot in the backstage of the theater, a project they intended to enter into a national photography contest later this month. However, when they entered the property, they encountered a somewhat haunting message written onto the stage. They had already started shooting photos backstage, but they were brought out to the stage after they heard a loud crash from outside. They weren't prepared for the sight they saw next, which was the message burned into the stage "Levi Hayes will pay for his betrayal". The students believed that some angry ghost burned the message into the stage as some kind of final vow for revenge from beyond the grave. Some may believe this to be wonderful use of imagination from the students, but after he was approached with this news earlier this month, Levi Hayes left town without a word. This strange mystery continues as his former workplace attempts to contact Hayes in regards to the amphitheater message.

And The Director Showing What You Need To Do Now

By Avery Pembroke

We do hope you've gotten a gist of what needs to happen here. I mean, the initials of the paper kinda give it away. If you haven't got it quite yet, hopefully this is the last push you need in order to start running down the proper path. Just be sure to pay attention to the minutes, nothing else. We do believe in you, we hope to see you soon.
